

Applied Moldings

Applied moldings or “Plant-ons” can be produced in any number of configurations and with any number species. Molding can be supplied to match the face species or can be mixed as shown in the samples below. There are several types of molding profiles available that can be provided to match new or existing conditions. Molding can be applied to just about all of our products but there are some considerations that must be met on fire rated doors. Please check with our sales or technical department. The following examples are just a sample of the possibilities that can be achieved with applied molding.

Special molding configuration examples

Standard molding configuration examples

Standard molding profiles

